SELECT SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL AT "FAIRLESS"

To Be Located on Former McNabb Tract; 18 Classrooms, 3 Kindergartens

BID DATE IS APRIL 24

FALLSINGTON, Apr. 17 — Plans are being completed by Falls Twp. school board for building of an elementary school in Fairless Hills district.

It was originally planned to erect the school on a site in the southwestern area of the development, on land known as the Rank farm. This site had been approved by both state and county school authorities.

Most members of the school board and of Falls Twp. School Authority felt that the school should be erected on a site closer to the houses already built in Fairless Hills. After many meetings and much consideration, the board voted to choose a site nearer the junction of Hulmeville road and the proposed Fairfax avenue. This plot is located on land known as the McNabb farm.

Procedures are being followed to have this site approved by state and county school authorities.

There are slightly over 14 acres of land in this site. It is near the center of Fairless Hills district. It is in an area of planned parks and playgrounds, features of the overall planning of the Danherst developers. It is not far from Lake Caroline.

Contractors are now in the pro-

MUTE AND INGLORIOUS

The deeper meaning of the recent statement by General Eisenhower, announcing his retirement from NATO so as to be ready to campaign for the presidency, is slowly becoming known to the American people.

For months the General's supporters and the middle-of-the-roaders have been begging the General to arrange things so that he could stand up boldly before the American people and tell them his position on the host of critical issues.

When his declaration finally was made, first impression was that he was throwing off the self-imposed gag which has kept him silent on the challenging problems so fearlessly discussed by most of the other entries in the presidential sweepstakes.

But now it is revealed that instead of taking off the gag, he is simply tying it tighter!

What he said was, in summary, that he was severing his military and official connections so that if nominated he would be free to speak out.

But as was made abundantly clear when he was asked for comments on the New Jersey election, until and unless he is nominated by the Republicans next July, he does not intend to discuss "politics" in any way, shape or form.

The General's situation, when he was running, by proxy, for the nomination, but prevented by his official connections from discussing the issues, was embarrasing and obviously unfair to the American voters, entitled to the clearest and freest information about the views of potential candidates.

But now that he has thrown off these alleged shackles, and rid himself of the asserted incumbrances to free speech on his part—for him still to lock his lips and refuse to comment on public matters of the supremest importance, that is incongruous, ridiculous and humiliating.

Inevitably the impression will gather that not ethics, not overriding questions of statesmanship, but simple fear of antagonizing voters and losing votes, is what now keeps him mute.

General Eisenhower's supporters claim three "famous victories." The facts are that they won New Hampshire with a statewide political machine, captured Minnesota by a sort of "sneak attack" in the form of a professionally organized write-in vote drive, and have just taken New Jersey by a doublecross.

Where the General's campaigners have met Senator Taft in the open and on anywhere near equal terms, the Ohioan has swept the field.

What is in General Eisenhower's mind now? Does he expect to win the nomination by the type of smoke-filled room strategy which has advanced his cause to date?

Does he expect to win the nomination, as Jim Duff won the Senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania two years ago, by refusing to debate or even discuss all the issues of the campaign, and relying on "the cohesive power of public plunder?"

And what of the American people? Are they of a mind to take seriously the candidacy of a Johnny-come-lately Republican, long showered by honors and acclaim by the very group he would have to run against next fall, who thus attempts to treat

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

As Korean truce talks still marked time, the Allies announced they would move war prisoners from crowded Koje Island to smaller stockades in South Korea. The United Nations was said to be ready to start a broad-scale rehabilitation program in Korea as soon as an armistice was realized.

"American interests will suffer," Secretary Acheson said, from "inconsistencies" between a proclaimed desire to encourage trade with allies and a practice of erecting trade barriers. Moscow hopes to get strategic materials through increasing Russian trade with the West in commercial items, he warned.

France is seeking guarantees from the United States and Britain against secession by any member of the European Defense Community, especially Germany. General Eisenhower visited Brussels on a good-bye tour of NATO capitals.

Demonstrations against Italy and the West over Trieste swept Yugoslav cities.

Secretary Acheson said the United States did not support the move to place the Tunisian question on the United Nations Security Council agenda because it wanted to give France and Tunisia time to work out a solution.

Victor Paz Estenssoro was proclaimed President of Bolivia.

Governor Stevenson of Illinois definitely removed himself as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination and said he would seek only re-election as Governor. This left the Democrats without a strong candidate upon which to agree. In South Carolina, Governor Byrnes won adoption of a program that would give Southern Democrats a chance to decide whether to stay with the party or from a third party.

On the Republican side, General Eisenhower's majority in the New Jersey primary neared 160,000. He seemed assured of thirty-one delegates to one for Harold Stassen and not more than six for Senator Taft.

Abolition or reduction of bonus pay for hazardous duty would seriously affect national security, defense and military heads told a Senate group. Even with incentive pay, volunteers are hard to find, they said. One flier who had refused to take to the air was sentenced to two years in prison without pay and dismissal from the Air Force.

It is time to stop talking and to get into action, President Truman said after viewing flood destruction in the Central States. He blamed an "economy wave" in Congress for having cut the major flood-control projects from his budget. Huge dams could have averted the disaster, Lieut. Gen. Pick declared.

The Missouri flooded new areas,

Want Councils Notified In Assessment Appeals

During a conference held last evening in Bristol Borough Municipal Building, several suggestions were made to clarify the tax and assessment revision program in Bucks County.

Francis J. Byers, president of Bristol Borough Council, asked that the borough councils of the county be notified when a property owner makes an appeal before the County Board of Revision of Taxes.

He pointed out to Elwood Britton, chief county assessor, and other local assessors and borough and township officials present, that he knew of many cases where property owners would materially increase the value of their property by renovations and additions, and when the assessment was raised, they would appeal.

Byers said at such hearings usually only the lawyer for the property owner would be present to outline his client's side of the case, and if borough officials were notified, they could be present to offer their side of why the assessment was raised.

Britton explained the operation of the new legislation, and this was followed by a question-and-answer period.

Sigmund Glocker, assessor in Falls twp., said the township had a trailer problem, and stated:

"How about trailers; what do we do with farmland where part of the land is rented to 20 or 30 trailers?"

Britton explained that occupation of farmland by trailers would cause an increase in the appraisal of the farm's value.

PEERING INTO FUTURE

"The best of prophets of the future is the past," wrote Byron, that master of apothegm. Or, as one should say in the vernacular of the present: "We've come thus far; so we should have an idea where we go from here."

Actually prophecy is safest when it deals with times a long way off. Some 200 insurance men in a "Conference on the Future" in New York heard five out of six distinguished scientists predict a rosy future for the world and for this country in particular.

Save for the warning by one that an atomic war might wipe out much of the world's population, they did not hear anything to impede the urge to go right on writing insurance.

There seemed a general impression that the time would come when atomic power would, and could, be used only for peaceful purposes, thereby greatly improving standards of living.

Prediction that psychology might put an end to social maladjustments—whatever they are—and put an end to organized crimes was well received (such predictions always are), as was that of a speaker from Harvard that woman, now trying to reconcile her place in the home with simultaneous holding of a job, would succeed and be happier than at present.

A Princeton scientist, who contented himself by dealing with the immediate future, made a strong point that while population increase in this decade might be from 16,000,000 to 20,000,000, the nation's aim for the future should not be so much to increase manpower as to promote high and diversified skills.

With reference to the other prophecies, which represented the best judgment of eminent scientists, it is not possible to quarrel, and the truth of some of them none now living will survive long enough to learn about.

UNDERSEA MYSTERY

During the pitch black night of May 3, and the misty morning hours of May 4, 1945 three U-boats sailed north from the waters surrounding the ruined German naval base at Kiel, at the foot of the Danish peninsula. They were trying to reach the Skaggerak, and then the North Sea.

Royal Air Force patrol planes caught the trio just at dawn. Oil slicks marked the spot for days. Several days ago a Danish diver placed a charge in a torpedo tube on one of the two subs that could be located by underwater detectors. A great mass of rotting canned food of all descriptions boiled to the surface. This and other flotsam revealed that here was the watery end of a concerted flight by an unknown number of unknown nazis.

And what of the unaccounted for third sub? Some people still doubt that Hitler was incinerated in a Berlin bunker. Is he alive? Was he in one of the two hulks that lay for seven years on the bottom of the Baltic.

Mute and Inglorious

them as one would so many children—"do as you're told and don't ask so many questions!"

Rumors fly thicker and faster. There is one set of rumors to the effect that the General himself has many misgivings over the type of professional into whose hands his destiny has fallen, has considerable distaste for the methods by which they have been seeking to advance him politically—and will, after he has exhausted all these men can do for him, "dump" them and turn his campaign and future over to an entirely different group at present seated on the sidelines.

Specific rumors are bouncing about—stories of deals here and swaps there, commitments of future benefits supposedly made in deepest secrecy, alleged promises of cabinet posts and other appointments "when and if."

One such rumor was given great currency in Pennsylvania ever the last week-end when John M. Cummings, Philadelphia Inquirer political commentator, published a report that Governor Fine had entered into a secret deal with former Governor Duff to throw Pennsylvania's strength to General Eisenhower.

It is quite a commentary on the nature of political activities which have been going on in the Eisenhower promotion department that Mr. Cummings should assert with much seriousness that Governor Fine is about to break his public word in Pennsylvania, and "pull a Driscoll" on the state's Republicans.

The fact is, of course, that Governor Fine made his position clear, not in private conversations, but openly and firmly—that he opposes any premature commitments, that he wants the delegates uninstructed, and that he proposes to lead the Pennsylvanians to Chicago to throw their weight behind the candidate whom, at that time, proves to be the best in sight.

He has promised publicly, also, that if for any reason some other course may be indicated before the convention, he proposes to confer with all important elements of the Republican Party before recommending a commitment.

One would think that the Philadelphia commentator would need more than just a "report" to accuse Governor Fine of an undercover deal to break his word and betray his associates along the lines Mr. Cummings described.

Howard A. LeVan, Engineer, of Harrisburg, who designed the system, Fairless Hills is located in the drainage area of the Queen Ann creek and therefore it was logical to extend the interceptor down this creek to a point at or near the Bristol highway. At this spot, it is possible to cross a slight topographical rise and extend the interceptor further southwestward to the Neshaminy creek without being required to pump the sewage.

Pumping a reasonably large flow of sewage, such as that which will originate in Fairless Hills is a costly initial undertaking resulting in a perpetually high operation cost. It was, according to LeVan, necessary to go to the Neshaminy creek for two reasons: (1) The Queen Ann creek is not large enough to support the discharge from a plant of the size that will be required, and (2) Queen Ann creek flows into a recreational lake used by the residents of Bristol, and even though the sewage being discharged would be completely treated, the design policy of the Pennsylvania Department of Health is such that they would not permit discharge into the creek.

Mr. Collins, the chairman of the Authority, revealed that they had made every effort to ascertain that the original recommendations as to the route of the sewage line and the design of the treatment plant itself, were economically sound and practical. The New York firm of Havens & Emerson was consulted as to feasibility of Mr. LeVan's plans and following this consultation, the Authority approved them.

The township supervisors expressed themselves as pleased with progress made by the Authority. Harrison Carver, chairman of the board of supervisors, was enthusiastic in commendation of Authority members and stated that these men had given freely of their time in fulfilling the responsibility given them.

Butcher & Sherrerd, Phila., has been retained by the Authority as financial advisors. This firm has been retained in capacity of advisors and underwriters for at least 15 sewer authorities within five years. Their chief interest at this time "is in producing a financial plan which will permit the Authority to charge a reasonable rate, which householders can afford, and still permit the Authority to pay the costs of operation, interest, and to set aside sufficient money each year to enable them to buy a certain number of bonds until the issue floated for the purpose of construction is paid off. Only rentals from the territory served and no other money from any source whatsoever will be used to support the repayment requirements of the bonds."

Mr. Collins emphasized the fact that "the entire project is on a self-liquidating basis and that no tax money from any source is involved. Only those homes which are serviced by the sewer line will be required to pay rent. Bids on the plant and work already done, the cost of which has been determined, indicate that the sewer rental will be less than $40 per year, per house."

Concerning the present population, or any reasonable population that may develop in and around Fallsington, from an economical standpoint, as well as from an operational standpoint, Levan pointed out that "it will be much more feasible to pump the relatively small amount of sewage that will originate in the Fallsington area westward to the eastern line of Fairless Hills than to pump the great amount of sewage originating within Fairless Hills eastward and through Fallsington."

In response to queries on the part of many residents in the Township, Collins pointed out that at the present time, the authority which was created by supervisors and instructed by a supervisors' ordinance, "can render sewage service only in the area which is Fairless Hills and the Bolton Farm as set forth in their Ordinance passed Jan. 29, 1952. However, the Authority will render service beyond this area when the supervisors extend or add to the area and when the Authority and the investment bankers are satisfied that this can be done at a rate which will be reasonable enough to insure sufficient customers to liquidate necessary additional bonds. This will be possible when the area is congested heavily enough to warrant the sewer service.

"From a banking standpoint, the economics of an operating authority with the several thousand customers that will be produced within Fairless Hills would make it much more attractive to finance extensions which could ultimately serve the Fallsington area by pumping. The interceptor and the sewage treatment plant have a design capacity of 6,000 dwellings. Hence, 2000 to 2500 homes in addition to the requirements of Fairless Hills can eventually be served."

The supervisors expressed a keen desire to provide similar modern sewer facilities for other parts of the township at such a time as the population needs justify it.

Cornwells Man Helps Avert A Train Wreck

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 17—The facts concerning a narrowly-averted railroad accident early Tuesday morning were discovered today.

Walter Klein, 68, of Cornwells Heights, is the hero of the story. He had taken the mail from Cornwells post office to the P. R. R. station, here, when he noticed that lumber, loaded on a flatcar of a freight train headed for New York, had shifted. Mr. Klein said: "I was afraid that it was extending far enough to smash the windows of a train coming the other way." Mr. Klein rushed into the station and informed Asa Smith, local signal maintainer, who called the signal tower located near Green Lane, Bristol.

Harold Hartpence, signal block operator, received the call and, realizing that a train from New York had just passed the tower, shut off all power. The trains, however, had too much momentum and they met just east of Croydon. Hartpence said: "It was fortunate that the New York train was an express and baggage train that did not carry passengers and which does not have windows in the cars. As it was, the lumber scraped the side of the cars severely. If it had been a passenger train and if the shifted lumber had not been noticed, it is quite possible that a number of passengers could have been severely hurt, if not killed."

Mr. Klein explained that he always looks for possible accidents, "ever since I was standing at a station years ago and a huge nut flew off the train and narrowly missed me."

The steel industry can absorb $1,000,000,000 in cost increases and still not be entitled to a price increase, Price Stabilizer Arnall said in charging the industry with unjustified demands. There was no progress on a settlement.

Most minor issues in the telephone strike were reported resolved and there was hope of complete agreement soon.

124 South Green street, Langhorne. They were wedded Jan. 29, 1947, in Wilmington, Del.

Charging the Middletown Township Zoning Board with refusing them a hearing, Christian and Clara Miller, Lincoln Highway, have filed an appeal in the Court of Common Pleas.

The petitioners wanted to build a motel, 14 feet by 86 feet, which will provide space for 16 guests, on their property which is 181 feet along the Lincoln Highway and 800 feet deep.

A dwelling house, four tourist cabins and a garage are now on the petitioners' premises.

The petitioners allege that on Feb. 4th they made a formal written request and were denied the authority to build their motel on Feb. 19.

Walter S. Miller is chairman of the Zoning Board, and according to the Zoning Code, which was adopted in 1948, Section 910 prohibits the building of tourist cabins, motels and auto courts on any land and under any classification.

The petitioners point out that they were never given any hearing before the Board of Adjustment and that there was never any opposition on the part of any of the property owners who live near them.

The Millers allege that not being given a hearing is unconstitutional.

ing committee was also instructed, at the suggestion of Albert J. Berdis, board member from U. S. Steel Co., that application for steel priorities be applied for as soon as possible.

Public Relations Chairman, Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, reported that all members of this committee are in possession of an official news bulletin and are thus in a position to answer many questions concerning the hospital. Mrs. Goebig also made known that in the hospital records is an offer from Pastor Lehman Strauss, in behalf of the Calvary Baptist Church, to place one copy of the English Bible in each room in the hospital. This offer is to be accepted when the hospital is erected.

The committee chairman noted that since the hospital drawings will not be ready until sometime after May 1st, no action on selection of memorial units by donors could be taken until that time.

The board of directors is doing everything within its jurisdiction, it was announced, to hasten early erection of the hospital.

Davises Observe 40th Anniversary of Wedding

NEW HOPE, Apr. 17 — The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis was marked at the end of the week when a surprise party was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Walter Seuren.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seuren, of Pennington, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Fell, of this place; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Slotter, of Point Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. William Hellyer and children Margaret, Catherine Ann, Rosemary and Eileen, Danboro; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cadwallader and daughter Jane, Lahaska.

The Davises were married in 1912, in Doylestown, by the Rev. L. V. Hetrich. Their first home, where they remained for nearly eight years, was on the Davis homestead in Glendale, south of Lahaska, where Mr. Davis was born. They moved from there to Lahaska where Mr. Davis conducted a commission business to Philadelphia.

During the 43 years that he was in the business he only missed one week due to illness or heavy snow.

A year ago they built a new home here and moved away from Lahaska.

Start Dismantling The Former Stackhouse House

EMILIE, Apr. 17 — Work of dismantling the three story frame house on the property now belonging to Levitt and Sons, on Mill Creek road, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. T. Russell Stackhouse, began yesterday.

The farm now consisted of 81 acres, according to a spokesman of the Stackhouse family, had been in possession of that family since 1795, when the King of England granted the tract of land to John Brown, great, great, great grandfather of the present Stackhouse generation.

The original tract of land was said to be approximately 400 acres and extended to the canal near Edgely, also a portion of land now known as Wister Institute. During the years, certain tracts had been sold until the farm now had only 81 acres.

The sixth generation of the Stackhouse family, the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stackhouse, had lived in the house until the past week.

It is stated a section of the original house was built in 1795 and was still a part of the house, which had been extended in three sections.

Approximately eight years ago, the house was remodeled to make two apartments by the T. Russell Stackhouse family, last owners of the farm.

According to deeds dated July 31, 1795, now in possession of a member of the Stackhouse family, John R. Stackhouse, deceased, purchased at public aution 210 acres of land a part of the original tract for $17 per acre.

To Give Graphic Picture of Acetate Fabric Development

A writer and fabric consultant, Miss Audrey S. Armitage, will be the speaker tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Travel Club in the club home. Miss Armitage will give many facts learned through her experience in visiting many parts of Europe and the Middle East during writing assignments.

The program will be in charge of Mrs. Michael A. Harrity. Tea will be poured by the hostesses, Mrs. John M. Rogers and Mrs. J. E. W. Tracy, for members of the club and their guests.

Miss Armitage is assistant to the director of Consumer Information for the Celanese Corporation of America and is expected to relate many interesting highlights from her travels.

The Consumer Information program, as presented by Miss Armitage, will offer a graphic picture of the romantic development of acetate fabrics and will emphasize their important use in fashions and home decoration. Miss Armitage will have many suggestions for home sewing which will be helpful in planning and budgeting the wardrobe.

The program will be enhanced by a colorful display of acetate fabrics, many of which are being used by prominent French and American designers.

Mrs. Charles I. Bowen will be the soloist.

Today's Quiet Moment

Submitted by the Rev. Stanley A. Powel, Jr., B.D., Rector, Christ Episcopal Church, Eddington Vicar, St. Paul's Edgely.

—o—

Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over Him.

For in that He died, He died unto sin once; but in that He liveth, He liveth unto God.

Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. 6:9.

"O God, who for our redemption didst give Thine only begotten Son to the death of the Cross, and by His glorious resurrection hast delivered us from the power of the enemy; grant us so to die daily from sin, that we may evermore live with Him in the joy of His resurrection; through the same Thy Son Christ our Lord. Amen." (Book of Common Prayer.)

ORNER PITCHES "NO-HIT" GAME BUT IS DEFEATED

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 17—It is seldom that a pitcher hurls a no-hit game and is beaten. But that was the fate suffered by Dick Orner. Bristol High Junior, who was beaten by Bensalem Township High, 1-0, yesterday afternoon in a Lower Bucks County League game on Hansell's field.

Orner hooked up in a mound dual with Bob Whitfield who allowed the Bristol team but two hits. Orner did not allow a solitary base blow and his hitless pitching ran the Bensalem streak of hitless innings to 14.

The lone run of the game was scored by Orner's hill opponent, Whitfield. After Harvey Crowthers had struck out to open the last half of the seventh, Whitfield reached base on an error by Ercole Petrizzi. He moved to second on a passed ball. Al Parker struck out for the second out. Whitfield proceeded to steal third and then to the amazement of everyone stole home with the winning run.

The two Bristol hits were made by Conn and Gibbs. Conn got his in the third and Gibbs, in the fourth. In the third, Bristol had runners on first and second with no one out but failed to advance the runners.

Orner struck out 10, hit a batter, and walked two. Whitfield had 11 strikeouts, passed two, and also hit a batter.

FOUR WINS IN FIFTH GIVE ST. MARY'S WIN

LANGHORNE, Apr. 17 — Four runs in the fifth inning gave St. Mary's of Langhorne, a 5-1 triumph over Bristol Junior High, yesterday, on the winner's diamond.

Bristol's downfall started when Hafschmitt was hit with a pitched ball. Bradshaw was thrown out but J. Meidoyl got on via an error. Mallinson's triple scored both base runners and he scored on a safety by R. Meidoyle. An error aided R. Meidoyle to finally cross the plate.

Bristol's marker was counted in the third frame when DeLissio singled and came tearing across the plate on a two-bagger from the bat of Cummons.

Monte had two of Bristol's four hits. St. Mary's was held to three hits by Gene Baiocchi and Bob Heidler.

Bensalem To Tax Trailers $3 Monthly

The two taxes will add an estimated $16,600 to the township revenues over a year's time, officials said. The trailers will contribute $12,600 and amusement establishments will add about $4000.

Buettner told the supervisors his organization is preparing new legislation for action by the state legislature seeking a limit on the amount of taxes that could be levied on trailers.

Louis Rubin, counsel for Bucks Co. Trailerite Ass'n, said his group was reserving the right to appeal to the courts against the new trailer tax. He said the present Legislative Act set a $10 limit but did not specify in what period it might be levied.

Report was made that William Peck, ex-state police officer, had been hired for the police force. Mr. Peck had been associated with state police in the Lancaster area for about 10 years.

Work has been started to install two traffic light standards at Bristol Pike and Street road. It is stated the lights will be in operation by the end of this week.

ELECT

FOR CONGRESS

(BUCKS-LEHIGH DISTRICT)

We are proud to present to the voters of Bucks County GEORGE R. BLAY as the Republican candidate for Congress in the 8th Congressional District.

Mr. Blay was born in Lehighton, Carbon County, in 1905. In 1912, with his parents, he moved to the Borough of Fountain Hill, Lehigh County, where he still resides. He was educated in the schools of that borough and in the schools of the City of Bethlehem. Upon graduation he entered the newspaper field, having worked on the Bethlehem Times, The Philadelphia Inquirer and the Bethlehem Globe-Times.

Mr. Blay is married and the father of one son, who during the Second World War served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific and was recalled to service in 1950 and is presently doing "police action" in Korea.

In 1944 Mr. Blay was selected by the late Congressman Charles L. Gerlach as his Executive Secretary and served in that capacity until the death of Mr. Gerlach in 1947. He was also secretary and general manager of the Allentown Supply Corporation and in 1948 went into business with his son and is presently managing that business until his son's return from service.

We believe that we should elect Mr. Blay as our Congressman because during the three years that he served as the secretary to Mr. Gerlach he gained much valuable experience and knowledge of the office he is seeking and realizes the services that must be given to the people of the district he would represent.

A Congressman's position is one of dignity, honor and service and he realizes the importance of efficient government, wise law-making and good business management.

Our government in America is no better than the people we elect to public office. That is why it is of utmost importance to consider their qualifications and then on April 22 go to the polls and vote carefully.

PEERS DUST ERMINE ROBES FOR CEREMONY

Not Enough To Go Around For Forthcoming British Coronation

MANY TO RENT THEM

By Fred Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Apr. 17 — (INS) — All over Britain peers and peeresses are dusting off their ermine edged robes and coronets in readiness for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

Heavy death duties and other taxes have slashed many a vast fortune belonging to the peerage and for those members of the aristocracy whose ancestors neglected to put the family robes in mothballs, the coronation next year may mean a new low-cost robe or a trip to a rental firm.

One firm that specializes in renting out such robes told International News Service that although the coronation date had yet to be fixed business already is "brisk."

The company said some peers and peeresses had made reservations and "the demand always exceeds the supply of robes."

The firm has many of its workers brushing and ironing the beautiful robes and renewing ermine that has suffered from long storage. Other workers are busy refurbishing coronets.

The official explained that the stock of robes is in good condition for they were rarely used. Most of the robes had been bought from the estates of peerages that were now extinct.

Experts estimate that a first class robe with cape costs about $3,000 new. But for those robeless peers and peeresses who decide to cut their costs and rent their regalia the cost is $87.

For another $24 a peer can also hire a court dress to wear under the robe.

The cut, style and color of the robes are rigidly controlled. Each robe is made of crimson velvet lined with white taffeta and edged with minniver, the winter coat of the ermine. Over the long robe is worn a short cape of minniver with rows of ermine denoting the wearer's rank. Such markings range from four rows of ermine "tips" for a duke to two rows for a baron.

Coronets are another badge of rank and the position of gold leaves and silver balls that surmount the silver-gilt circlet identify the wearer as duke, marquis, earl, viscount or baron.

For those peers and peeresses who jibe at hiring a coronation robe some firms are reported to be considering making a low cost outfit with rabbit pinch-hitting for ermine. It is estimated that such a robe would cost about $750.

The peeresses robe or mantle is worn over a kirtle or outer petticoat which has an open front to show the gown.

Rank among the peeresses is denoted by rows of ermine (it may now be rabbit) similar to those worn by the peers. Length of train also denotes rank, this ranges from two yards for a duchess to a yard for a baroness. Peeresses also wear scaled down coronets similar to those worn by their husbands.

The official of the rental firm said peers and peeresses did not seem to mind renting out robes for the coronation and some seemed very glad to be able to do so thus saving themselves a great expense.

The creation of many new peerages since the coronation of King George VI. in 1937 had caused an increased demand for rented coronation robes.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Apr. 17. The Senate Judiciary Committee can perform a notable service for the American people when it calls Federal Judge James P. McGranery before it to consider his nomination as Attorney General of the United States.

Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat who is Chairman of the Judiciary Committee and not notably pro-McGranery, has indicated that the notorious Amerasia case will again be explored.

To begin with, the Senator should once and for all gag Judge McGranery, and any Justice Department officials called as witnesses, with the truth concerning the nature of the almost 2,000 Government documents stolen by Communists and their playmates who were involved in the Amerasia case.

Judge McGranery, who was assistant to the Attorney General in 1945 when the FBI arrested John S. Service and five others, has insisted since that date that the stolen documents were innocuous parcels of disconnected newspaper clippings containing no threat to the nation's security.

James M. McInerney, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, is another law enforcement officer who has maintained that the stolen papers were a mess of pottage.

During his appearance before the Tydings whitewash investigation of Reds in the State Department, McInerney had this to say:

"I would say that with respect to all of these documents, that they were of innocuous, very innocuous character. If I would estimate that 1 per cent of them related to our national defense, that would be about right. They had to do with very minor political and economical matters in the Far East, and I say that, having been chief of the Internal Security Section of the Department all during the war, I handled all the espionage cases for the Department and these things impressed me as being a little above the level of tea-cup gossip in the Far East."

McGranery, who was greased into his Federal judgeship by the then Attorney General Tom Clark, was McInerney's boss. He first established the fiction that nothing of importance was stolen from secret Government files. In one instance he told a Congressional Committee:

"I went back to check up to see how we stood with some of the things you gentlemen talked about, principally this bombing paper that seems to be stressed. On the one hand it could be said that it is a very innocuous thing. The paper, itself, is not an original. It seems to have been taken from a number of sources of periodicals, Navy periodicals that perhaps were restricted."

Two of the six arrested in the Amerasia case were freed following light fines. Four others were never taken to court. Throughout the legal proceedings constant references were made to the grand juries and the court that the thievery was petty. It was, in fact, a chorus of belittlement with occasional refrains that filching secret documents from Government files was a commonplace practice among Washington newspapermen.

Only once did McGranery change his tune. And that was when a Congressman forced him to admit that if a Russian-lover could steal one paper he could steal almost any secret paper. The judge said, "That is the angle the Congress is after," but it was not the angle the Department of Justices was after.

All the six arrested in the Amerasia case had Government documents in their possession when the FBI raided their various homes and offices. It took a truck to haul the loot back to the Government files where it belonged.

Here is a breakdown of the "innocuous" documents—so labeled by McGranery and McInterney:

Restricted, 119; confidential, 208; strictly confidential, 59; secret, 153; very secret, 1. The remainder were unclassified.

Of the total, 117 dealt with military matters; 438 with political; 120 economic; 119 biographical; 275 publications. The remainder defy classification.

Senator Tydings and his committee joined in labeling the documents innocuous.

Before the Judge is confirmed the Senate ought to ask him for another definition of the word. There are all kinds of papers in the Department of Justice marked "secret." And he'll be in charge of them.

INFORM OF YARDSTICK USED BY S. S. BOARD

Statement is Made Regarding Deferment of Farm Youth

IMPORTANCE OF FARM

What is the yardstick local boards are supposed to use in the deferment of farm youth? Selective Service makes the following statement to clarify the situation as it now exists:

"Many of these farms are purely subsistence farms and produce only sufficient to maintain the farm family. Many others are producing below what is considered necessary for the "health, safety, or interest of the nation." These sub-standard farms present a problem to Selective Service Local Boards in the matter of deferments.

"Selective Service is mindful that the family farm is an important element in our state and in the country as a whole, and should not be eliminated from the national picture. Rather, Selective Service is of the opinion that these farms which are usually below a one man production average could and should be improved to produce at least what is expected one man should produce. If this cannot be done, this kind of farm is relatively unimportant in the national economy and cannot be considered entitled to an agricultural deferment under Selective Service regulations.

"With this in mind, Pennsylvania Selective Service has accepted, as fair, a formula suggested by the Production and Marketing Administration. This formula uses as an example a farm producing for market 20 points. This farm will feed a family of four plus forty-four service men. Based on this formula, Pennsylvania State Selective Service System has furnished our local boards with a "guide" standard for farm deferments.

"Many of our farms fall short of this standard we have set and, therefore, do not rate agricultural deferments. Some of the farmers on these substandard farms have accused Selective Service Local Boards of favoring large commercial farms over these family farms, and of deliberately destroying the family or low producing farms. However, these same farmers continue to maintain a sub-standard operation. Thus, they defeat themselves, because they won't make the extra effort to raise their production.

"The Department of Agriculture is now calling for increased production in many farm commodities.

"Selective Service is of the opinion that a great quantity of this needed produce can be obtained by increasing the efficiency of the substandard farm. Colonel Gross, State Director of Selective Service, and Major H. H. MacCubbin, Farm Adviser, are of the opinion that if a man can produce near to our standard line on the under side he can go over that line. And that if a farm manned by two men produces six points less than our 'yardstick' standard for two men and fourteen points over a one-man standard, that farm can increase its efficiency to at least a two-man operation. We know this is possible because we have instances of one man producing for market as much as we have set for two and a half men.

"In order, therefore, to help agriculture meet its quota in food production, Colonel Gross has asked the Local Boards in Pennsylvania to keep a close check on farm deferments.

"If, said Colonel Gross, when a Local Board defers a man whose farm is not quite up to the production standard, the board will impress upon him that his operation must have increased to the standard required when his case is again reopened or he will not again be deferred, the boards will be contributing a valuable service to the country, and to the farmer, by stimulating him to do his best rather than just enough to get him by and insufficient to be of much help to the country.

"It will be of mutual benefit to the farmer and to the Local Board if a registrant or his employer will exercise his right of appeal within the time limit prescribed by law. This limit is clearly stated on Form SSS-110, Notice of Classification, which is mailed to the registrant, and Form SSS-111 which is mailed to registrant's employer.

"If no action is taken by registrant or employer until after registrant has been ordered for induction, he has little chance of having his induction postponed.

"Farmers should give full and complete information requested on SSSP-621, Agricultural Occupation Data Form, otherwise, they may not receive full credit. This information becomes a part of registrant's file and is confidential."

The U. S. expedition against Villa entered Mexico Mar. 15, 1916.

SELECT SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL AT "FAIRLESS"

To Be Located on Former McNabb Tract; 18 Classrooms, 3 Kindergartens

BID DATE IS APRIL 24

FALLSINGTON, Apr. 17 — Plans are being completed by Falls Twp. school board for building of an elementary school in Fairless Hills district.

It was originally planned to erect the school on a site in the southwestern area of the development, on land known as the Rank farm. This site had been approved by both state and county school authorities.

Most members of the school board and of Falls Twp. School Authority felt that the school should be erected on a site closer to the houses already built in Fairless Hills. After many meetings and much consideration, the board voted to choose a site nearer the junction of Hulmeville road and the proposed Fairfax avenue. This plot is located on land known as the McNabb farm.

Procedures are being followed to have this site approved by state and county school authorities.

There are slightly over 14 acres of land in this site. It is near the center of Fairless Hills district. It is in an area of planned parks and playgrounds, features of the overall planning of the Danherst developers. It is not far from Lake Caroline.

Contractors are now in the pro-

MUTE AND INGLORIOUS

The deeper meaning of the recent statement by General Eisenhower, announcing his retirement from NATO so as to be ready to campaign for the presidency, is slowly becoming known to the American people.

For months the General's supporters and the middle-of-the-roaders have been begging the General to arrange things so that he could stand up boldly before the American people and tell them his position on the host of critical issues.

When his declaration finally was made, first impression was that he was throwing off the self-imposed gag which has kept him silent on the challenging problems so fearlessly discussed by most of the other entries in the presidential sweepstakes.

But now it is revealed that instead of taking off the gag, he is simply tying it tighter!

What he said was, in summary, that he was severing his military and official connections so that if nominated he would be free to speak out.

But as was made abundantly clear when he was asked for comments on the New Jersey election, until and unless he is nominated by the Republicans next July, he does not intend to discuss "politics" in any way, shape or form.

The General's situation, when he was running, by proxy, for the nomination, but prevented by his official connections from discussing the issues, was embarrasing and obviously unfair to the American voters, entitled to the clearest and freest information about the views of potential candidates.

But now that he has thrown off these alleged shackles, and rid himself of the asserted incumbrances to free speech on his part—for him still to lock his lips and refuse to comment on public matters of the supremest importance, that is incongruous, ridiculous and humiliating.

Inevitably the impression will gather that not ethics, not overriding questions of statesmanship, but simple fear of antagonizing voters and losing votes, is what now keeps him mute.

General Eisenhower's supporters claim three "famous victories." The facts are that they won New Hampshire with a statewide political machine, captured Minnesota by a sort of "sneak attack" in the form of a professionally organized write-in vote drive, and have just taken New Jersey by a doublecross.

Where the General's campaigners have met Senator Taft in the open and on anywhere near equal terms, the Ohioan has swept the field.

What is in General Eisenhower's mind now? Does he expect to win the nomination by the type of smoke-filled room strategy which has advanced his cause to date?

Does he expect to win the nomination, as Jim Duff won the Senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania two years ago, by refusing to debate or even discuss all the issues of the campaign, and relying on "the cohesive power of public plunder?"

And what of the American people? Are they of a mind to take seriously the candidacy of a Johnny-come-lately Republican, long showered by honors and acclaim by the very group he would have to run against next fall, who thus attempts to treat

As Korean truce talks still marked time, the Allies announced they would move war prisoners from crowded Koje Island to smaller stockades in South Korea. The United Nations was said to be ready to start a broad-scale rehabilitation program in Korea as soon as an armistice was realized.

"American interests will suffer," Secretary Acheson said, from "inconsistencies" between a proclaimed desire to encourage trade with allies and a practice of erecting trade barriers. Moscow hopes to get strategic materials through increasing Russian trade with the West in commercial items, he warned.

France is seeking guarantees from the United States and Britain against secession by any member of the European Defense Community, especially Germany. General Eisenhower visited Brussels on a good-bye tour of NATO capitals.

Demonstrations against Italy and the West over Trieste swept Yugoslav cities.

Secretary Acheson said the United States did not support the move to place the Tunisian question on the United Nations Security Council agenda because it wanted to give France and Tunisia time to work out a solution.

Victor Paz Estenssoro was proclaimed President of Bolivia.

Governor Stevenson of Illinois definitely removed himself as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination and said he would seek only re-election as Governor. This left the Democrats without a strong candidate upon which to agree. In South Carolina, Governor Byrnes won adoption of a program that would give Southern Democrats a chance to decide whether to stay with the party or from a third party.

On the Republican side, General Eisenhower's majority in the New Jersey primary neared 160,000. He seemed assured of thirty-one delegates to one for Harold Stassen and not more than six for Senator Taft.

Abolition or reduction of bonus pay for hazardous duty would seriously affect national security, defense and military heads told a Senate group. Even with incentive pay, volunteers are hard to find, they said. One flier who had refused to take to the air was sentenced to two years in prison without pay and dismissal from the Air Force.

It is time to stop talking and to get into action, President Truman said after viewing flood destruction in the Central States. He blamed an "economy wave" in Congress for having cut the major flood-control projects from his budget. Huge dams could have averted the disaster, Lieut. Gen. Pick declared.

The Missouri flooded new areas,

Juniors Are Invited On Hospital Tour, Picnic

The junior group of the American Legion Auxiliary met in Bracken Post Home, Tuesday, with chairman Wilberta Stoeckle presiding.

TIME LIMIT, 120 DAYS

FAIRLESS HILLS, Apr. 17—The Sewer Authority of Falls Township, comprised of John Collins, Chairman, John Kruger, W. E. Ekelman, Maurice Schull, R. Spencer High and Willard S. The general contract was awarded to James D. Morrisey, Inc., and the mechanical contract to the Huffman-Wolfe Co. Work will proceed immediately and it is estimated that the interceptor line and the treatment plant will be ready for operation 120 days after start of construction.

The interceptor line will run from the boundary of Fairless Hills along a 4½-mile route to the plant which is south of Newportville on the east bank of the Neshaminy Creek, and an agent for the Authority is securing the right of way for the pipeline. The pipe for the interceptor is on hand, and it is anticipated that there will be no delay in construction of the system.

The natural topography of the land indicated the present route of the interceptor line according to

Want Councils Notified In Assessment Appeals

During a conference held last evening in Bristol Borough Municipal Building, several suggestions were made to clarify the tax and assessment revision program in Bucks County.

Francis J. Byers, president of Bristol Borough Council, asked that the borough councils of the county be notified when a property owner makes an appeal before the County Board of Revision of Taxes.

He pointed out to Elwood Britton, chief county assessor, and other local assessors and borough and township officials present, that he knew of many cases where property owners would materially increase the value of their property by renovations and additions, and when the assessment was raised, they would appeal.

Byers said at such hearings usually only the lawyer for the property owner would be present to outline his client's side of the case, and if borough officials were notified, they could be present to offer their side of why the assessment was raised.

Britton explained the operation of the new legislation, and this was followed by a question-and-answer period.

Sigmund Glocker, assessor in Falls twp., said the township had a trailer problem, and stated:

"How about trailers; what do we do with farmland where part of the land is rented to 20 or 30 trailers?"

Britton explained that occupation of farmland by trailers would cause an increase in the appraisal of the farm's value.

PEERING INTO FUTURE

"The best of prophets of the future is the past," wrote Byron, that master of apothegm. Or, as one should say in the vernacular of the present: "We've come thus far; so we should have an idea where we go from here."

Actually prophecy is safest when it deals with times a long way off. Some 200 insurance men in a "Conference on the Future" in New York heard five out of six distinguished scientists predict a rosy future for the world and for this country in particular.

Save for the warning by one that an atomic war might wipe out much of the world's population, they did not hear anything to impede the urge to go right on writing insurance.

There seemed a general impression that the time would come when atomic power would, and could, be used only for peaceful purposes, thereby greatly improving standards of living.

Prediction that psychology might put an end to social maladjustments—whatever they are—and put an end to organized crimes was well received (such predictions always are), as was that of a speaker from Harvard that woman, now trying to reconcile her place in the home with simultaneous holding of a job, would succeed and be happier than at present.

A Princeton scientist, who contented himself by dealing with the immediate future, made a strong point that while population increase in this decade might be from 16,000,000 to 20,000,000, the nation's aim for the future should not be so much to increase manpower as to promote high and diversified skills.

With reference to the other prophecies, which represented the best judgment of eminent scientists, it is not possible to quarrel, and the truth of some of them none now living will survive long enough to learn about.

UNDERSEA MYSTERY

During the pitch black night of May 3, and the misty morning hours of May 4, 1945 three U-boats sailed north from the waters surrounding the ruined German naval base at Kiel, at the foot of the Danish peninsula. They were trying to reach the Skaggerak, and then the North Sea.

Royal Air Force patrol planes caught the trio just at dawn. Oil slicks marked the spot for days. Several days ago a Danish diver placed a charge in a torpedo tube on one of the two subs that could be located by underwater detectors. A great mass of rotting canned food of all descriptions boiled to the surface. This and other flotsam revealed that here was the watery end of a concerted flight by an unknown number of unknown nazis.

And what of the unaccounted for third sub? Some people still doubt that Hitler was incinerated in a Berlin bunker. Is he alive? Was he in one of the two hulks that lay for seven years on the bottom of the Baltic.

Mute and Inglorious

them as one would so many children—"do as you're told and don't ask so many questions!"

Rumors fly thicker and faster. There is one set of rumors to the effect that the General himself has many misgivings over the type of professional into whose hands his destiny has fallen, has considerable distaste for the methods by which they have been seeking to advance him politically—and will, after he has exhausted all these men can do for him, "dump" them and turn his campaign and future over to an entirely different group at present seated on the sidelines.

Specific rumors are bouncing about—stories of deals here and swaps there, commitments of future benefits supposedly made in deepest secrecy, alleged promises of cabinet posts and other appointments "when and if."

One such rumor was given great currency in Pennsylvania over the last week-end when John M. Cummings, Philadelphia Inquirer political commentator, published a report that Governor Fine had entered into a secret deal with former Governor Duff to throw Pennsylvania's strength to General Eisenhower.

It is quite a commentary on the nature of political activities which have been going on in the Eisenhower promotion department that Mr. Cummings should assert with much seriousness that Governor Fine is about to break his public word in Pennsylvania, and "pull a Driscoll" on the state's Republicans.

The fact is, of course, that Governor Fine made his position clear, not in private conversations, but openly and firmly—that he opposes any premature commitments, that he wants the delegates uninstructed, and that he proposes to lead the Pennsylvanians to Chicago to throw their weight behind the candidate whom, at that time, proves to be the best in sight.

He has promised publicly, also, that if for any reason some other course may be indicated before the convention, he proposes to confer with all important elements of the Republican Party before recommending a commitment.

One would think that the Philadelphia commentator would need more than just a "report" to accuse Governor Fine of an undercover deal to break his word and betray his associates along the lines Mr. Cummings described.

Award Sewage Plant Contract for "Hills"

Howard A. LeVan, Engineer, of Harrisburg, who designed the system, Fairless Hills is located in the drainage area of the Queen Ann creek and therefore it was logical to extend the interceptor down this creek to a point at or near the Bristol highway. At this spot, it is possible to cross a slight topographical rise and extend the interceptor further southwestward to the Neshaminy creek without being required to pump the sewage.

Pumping a reasonably large flow of sewage, such as that which will originate in Fairless Hills is a costly initial undertaking resulting in a perpetually high operation cost. It was, according to LeVan, necessary to go to the Neshaminy creek for two reasons: (1) The Queen Ann creek is not large enough to support the discharge from a plant of the size that will be required, and (2) Queen Ann creek flows into a recreational lake used by the residents of Bristol, and even though the sewage being discharged would be completely treated, the design policy of the Pennsylvania Department of Health is such that they would not permit discharge into the creek.

Mr. Collins, the chairman of the Authority, revealed that they had made every effort to ascertain that the original recommendations as to the route of the sewage line and the design of the treatment plant itself, were economically sound and practical. The New York firm of Havens & Emerson was consulted as to feasibility of Mr. LeVan's plans and following this consultation, the Authority approved them.

The township supervisors expressed themselves as pleased with progress made by the Authority. Harrison Carver, chairman of the board of supervisors, was enthusiastic in commendation of Authority members and stated that these men had given freely of their time in fulfilling the responsibility given them.

Butcher & Sherrerd, Phila., has been retained by the Authority as financial advisors. This firm has been retained in capacity of advisors and underwriters for at least 15 sewer authorities within five years. Their chief interest at this time "is in producing a financial plan which will permit the Authority to charge a reasonable rate, which householders can afford, and still permit the Authority to pay the costs of operation, interest, and to set aside sufficient money each year to enable them to buy a certain number of bonds until the issue floated for the purpose of construction is paid off. Only rentals from the territory served and no other money from any source whatsoever will be used to support the repayment requirements of the bonds."

Mr. Collins emphasized the fact that "the entire project is on a self-liquidating basis and that no tax money from any source is involved. Only those homes which are serviced by the sewer line will be required to pay rent. Bids on the plant and work already done, the cost of which has been determined, indicate that the sewer rental will be less than $40 per year, per house."

Concerning the present population, or any reasonable population that may develop in and around Fallsington, from an economical standpoint, as well as from an operational standpoint, Levan pointed out that "it will be much more feasible to pump the relatively small amount of sewage that will originate in the Fallsington area westward to the eastern line of Fairless Hills than to pump the great amount of sewage originating within Fairless Hills eastward and through Fallsington."

In response to queries on the part of many residents in the Township, Collins pointed out that at the present time, the authority which was created by supervisors and instructed by a supervisors' ordinance, "can render sewage service only in the area which is Fairless Hills and the Bolton Farm as set forth in their Ordinance passed Jan. 29, 1952. However, the Authority will render service beyond this area when the supervisors extend or add to the area and when the Authority and the investment bankers are satisfied that this can be done at a rate which will be reasonable enough to insure sufficient customers to liquidate necessary additional bonds. This will be possible when the area is congested heavily enough to warrant the sewer service.

"From a banking standpoint, the economics of an operating authority with the several thousand customers that will be produced within Fairless Hills would make it much more attractive to finance extensions which could ultimately serve the Fallsington area by pumping. The interceptor and the sewage treatment plant have a design capacity of 6,000 dwellings. Hence, 2000 to 2500 homes in addition to the requirements of Fairless Hills can eventually be served."

The supervisors expressed a keen desire to provide similar modern sewer facilities for other parts of the township at such a time as the population needs justify it.

Cornwells Man Helps Avert A Train Wreck

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 17—The facts concerning a narrowly-averted railroad accident early Tuesday morning were discovered today.

Walter Klein, 68, of Cornwells Heights, is the hero of the story. He had taken the mail from Cornwells post office to the P. R. R. station, here, when he noticed that lumber, loaded on a flatcar of a freight train headed for New York, had shifted. Mr. Klein said: "I was afraid that it was extending far enough to smash the windows of a train coming the other way." Mr. Klein rushed into the station and informed Asa Smith, local signal maintainer, who called the signal tower located near Green Lane, Bristol.

Harold Hartpence, signal block operator, received the call and, realizing that a train from New York had just passed the tower, shut off all power. The trains, however, had too much momentum and they met just east of Croydon. Hartpence said: "It was fortunate that the New York train was an express and baggage train that did not carry passengers and which does not have windows in the cars. As it was, the lumber scraped the side of the cars severely. If it had been a passenger train and if the shifted lumber had not been noticed, it is quite possible that a number of passengers could have been severely hurt, if not killed."

Mr. Klein explained that he always looks for possible accidents, "ever since I was standing at a station years ago and a huge nut flew off the train and narrowly missed me."

The steel industry can absorb $1,000,000,000 in cost increases and still not be entitled to a price increase, Price Stabilizer Arnall said in charging the industry with unjustified demands. There was no progress on a settlement.

Most minor issues in the telephone strike were reported resolved and there was hope of complete agreement soon.

124 South Green street, Langhorne. They were wedded Jan. 29, 1947, in Wilmington, Del.

Charging the Middletown Township Zoning Board with refusing them a hearing, Christian and Clara Miller, Lincoln Highway, have filed an appeal in the Court of Common Pleas.

The petitioners wanted to build a motel, 14 feet by 86 feet, which will provide space for 16 guests, on their property which is 181 feet along the Lincoln Highway and 800 feet deep.

A dwelling house, four tourist cabins and a garage are now on the petitioners' premises.

The petitioners allege that on Feb. 4th they made a formal written request and were denied the authority to build their motel on Feb. 19.

Walter S. Miller is chairman of the Zoning Board, and according to the Zoning Code, which was adopted in 1948, Section 910 prohibits the building of tourist cabins, motels and auto courts on any land and under any classification.

The petitioners point out that they were never given any hearing before the Board of Adjustment and that there was never any opposition on the part of any of the property owners who live near them.

The Millers allege that not being given a hearing is unconstitutional.

ing committee was also instructed, at the suggestion of Albert J. Berdis, board member from U. S. Steel Co., that application for steel priorities be applied for as soon as possible.

Public Relations Chairman, Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, reported that all members of this committee are in possession of an official news bulletin and are thus in a position to answer many questions concerning the hospital. Mrs. Goebig also made known that in the hospital records is an offer from Pastor Lehman Strauss, in behalf of the Calvary Baptist Church, to place one copy of the English Bible in each room in the hospital. This offer is to be accepted when the hospital is erected.

The committee chairman noted that since the hospital drawings will not be ready until sometime after May 1st, no action on selection of memorial units by donors could be taken until that time.

The board of directors is doing everything within its jurisdiction, it was announced, to hasten early erection of the hospital.

Davises Observe 40th Anniversary of Wedding

NEW HOPE, Apr. 17 — The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis was marked at the end of the week when a surprise party was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Walter Seuren.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seuren, of Pennington, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Fell, of this place; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Slotter, of Point Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. William Hellyer and children Margaret, Catherine Ann, Rosemary and Eileen, Danboro; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cadwallader and daughter Jane, Lahaska.

The Davises were married in 1912, in Doylestown, by the Rev. L. V. Hetrich. Their first home, where they remained for nearly eight years, was on the Davis homestead in Glendale, south of Lahaska, where Mr. Davis was born. They moved from there to Lahaska where Mr. Davis conducted a commission business to Philadelphia.

During the 43 years that he was in the business he only missed one week due to illness or heavy snow.

A year ago they built a new home here and moved away from Lahaska.

Start Dismantling The Former Stackhouse House

EMILIE, Apr. 17 — Work of dismantling the three story frame house on the property now belonging to Levitt and Sons, on Mill Creek road, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. T. Russell Stackhouse, began yesterday.

The farm now consisted of 81 acres, according to a spokesman of the Stackhouse family, had been in possession of that family since 1795, when the King of England granted the tract of land to John Brown, great, great, great grandfather of the present Stackhouse generation.

The original tract of land was said to be approximately 400 acres and extended to the canal near Edgely, also a portion of land now known as Wister Institute. During the years, certain tracts had been sold until the farm now had only 81 acres.

The sixth generation of the Stackhouse family, the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stackhouse, had lived in the house until the past week.

It is stated a section of the original house was built in 1795 and was still a part of the house, which had been extended in three sections.

Approximately eight years ago, the house was remodeled to make two apartments by the T. Russell Stackhouse family, last owners of the farm.

According to deeds dated July 31, 1795, now in possession of a member of the Stackhouse family, John R. Stackhouse, deceased, purchased at public aution 210 acres of land a part of the original tract for $17 per acre.

To Give Graphic Picture of Acetate Fabric Development

A writer and fabric consultant, Miss Audrey S. Armitage, will be the speaker tomorrow afternoon at the meeting of the Travel Club in the club home. Miss Armitage will give many facts learned through her experience in visiting many parts of Europe and the Middle East during writing assignments.

The program will be in charge of Mrs. Michael A. Harrity. Tea will be poured by the hostesses, Mrs. John M. Rogers and Mrs. J. E. W. Tracy, for members of the club and their guests.

Miss Armitage is assistant to the director of Consumer Information for the Celanese Corporation of America and is expected to relate many interesting highlights from her travels.

The Consumer Information program, as presented by Miss Armitage, will offer a graphic picture of the romantic development of acetate fabrics and will emphasize their important use in fashions and home decoration. Miss Armitage will have many suggestions for home sewing which will be helpful in planning and budgeting the wardrobe.

The program will be enhanced by a colorful display of acetate fabrics, many of which are being used by prominent French and American designers.

Mrs. Charles I. Bowen will be the soloist.

—o—

Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over Him.

For in that He died, He died unto sin once; but in that He liveth, He liveth unto God.

Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. 6:9.

"O God, who for our redemption didst give Thine only begotten Son to the death of the Cross, and by His glorious resurrection hast delivered us from the power of the enemy; grant us so to die daily from sin, that we may evermore live with Him in the joy of His resurrection; through the same Thy Son Christ our Lord. Amen." (Book of Common Prayer.)

ORNER PITCHES "NO-HIT" GAME BUT IS DEFEATED

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 17—It is seldom that a pitcher hurls a no-hit game and is beaten. But that was the fate suffered by Dick Orner, Bristol High Junior, who was beaten by Bensalem Township High, 1-0, yesterday afternoon in a Lower Bucks County League game on Hansell's field.

Orner hooked up in a mound dual with Bob Whitfield who allowed the Bristol team but two hits. Orner did not allow a solitary base blow and his hitless pitching ran the Bensalem streak of hitless innings to 14.

The lone run of the game was scored by Orner's hill opponent, Whitfield. After Harvey Crowthers had struck out to open the last half of the seventh, Whitfield reached base on an error by Ercole Petrizzi. He moved to second on a passed ball. Al Parker struck out for the second out. Whitfield proceeded to steal third and then to the amazement of everyone stole home with the winning run.

The two Bristol hits were made by Conn and Gibbs. Conn got his in the third and Gibbs, in the fourth. In the third, Bristol had runners on first and second with no one out but failed to advance the runners.

Orner struck out 10, hit a batter, and walked two. Whitfield had 11 strikeouts, passed two, and also hit a batter.

FOUR WINS IN FIFTH GIVE ST. MARY'S WIN

LANGHORNE, Apr. 17 — Four runs in the fifth inning gave St. Mary's of Langhorne, a 5-1 triumph over Bristol Junior High, yesterday, on the winner's diamond.

Bristol's downfall started when Hafschmitt was hit with a pitched ball. Bradshaw was thrown out but J. Meidoyl got on via an error. Mallinson's triple scored both base runners and he scored on a safety by R. Meidoyle. An error aided R. Meidoyle to finally cross the plate.

Bristol's marker was counted in the third frame when DeLissio singled and came tearing across the plate on a two-bagger from the bat of Cummons.

Monte had two of Bristol's four hits. St. Mary's was held to three hits by Gene Baiocchi and Bob Heidler.

Bensalem To Tax Trailers $3 Monthly

The two taxes will add an estimated $16,600 to the township revenues over a year's time, officials said. The trailers will contribute $12,600 and amusement establishments will add about $4000.

Buettner told the supervisors his organization is preparing new legislation for action by the state legislature seeking a limit on the amount of taxes that could be levied on trailers.

Louis Rubin, counsel for Bucks Co. Trailerite Ass'n, said his group was reserving the right to appeal to the courts against the new trailer tax. He said the present Legislative Act set a $10 limit but did not specify in what period it might be levied.

Report was made that William Peck, ex-state police officer, had been hired for the police force. Mr. Peck had been associated with state police in the Lancaster area for about 10 years.

Work has been started to install two traffic light standards at Bristol Pike and Street road. It is stated the lights will be in operation by the end of this week.

ELECT GEORGE R. BLAY

FOR CONGRESS

(BUCKS-LEHIGH DISTRICT)

We are proud to present to the voters of Bucks County GEORGE R. BLAY as the Republican candidate for Congress in the 8th Congressional District.

Mr. Blay was born in Lehighton, Carbon County, in 1905. In 1912, with his parents, he moved to the Borough of Fountain Hill, Lehigh County, where he still resides. He was educated in the schools of that borough and in the schools of the City of Bethlehem. Upon graduation he entered the newspaper field, having worked on the Bethlehem Times, The Philadelphia Inquirer and the Bethlehem Globe-Times.

Mr. Blay is married and the father of one son, who during the Second World War served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific and was recalled to service in 1950 and is presently doing "police action" in Korea.

In 1944 Mr. Blay was selected by the late Congressman Charles L. Gerlach as his Executive Secretary and served in that capacity until the death of Mr. Gerlach in 1947. He was also secretary and general manager of the Allentown Supply Corporation and in 1948 went into business with his son and is presently managing that business until his son's return from service.

We believe that we should elect Mr. Blay as our Congressman because during the three years that he served as the secretary to Mr. Gerlach he gained much valuable experience and knowledge of the office he is seeking and realizes the services that must be given to the people of the district he would represent.

A Congressman's position is one of dignity, honor and service and he realizes the importance of efficient government, wise law-making and good business management.

Our government in America is no better than the people we elect to public office. That is why it is of utmost importance to consider their qualifications and then on April 22 go to the polls and vote carefully.

PEERS DUST ERMINE ROBES FOR CEREMONY

Not Enough To Go Around For Forthcoming British Coronation

MANY TO RENT THEM

By Fred Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Apr. 17 — (INS) — All over Britain peers and peeresses are dusting off their ermine edged robes and coronets in readiness for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

Heavy death duties and other taxes have slashed many a vast fortune belonging to the peerage and for those members of the aristocracy whose ancestors neglected to put the family robes in mothballs, the coronation next year may mean a new low-cost robe or a trip to a rental firm.

One firm that specializes in renting out such robes told International News Service that although the coronation date had yet to be fixed business already is "brisk."

The company said some peers and peeresses had made reservations and "the demand always exceeds the supply of robes."

The firm has many of its workers brushing and ironing the beautiful robes and renewing ermine that has suffered from long storage. Other workers are busy refurbishing coronets.

The official explained that the stock of robes is in good condition for they were rarely used. Most of the robes had been bought from the estates of peerages that were now extinct.

Experts estimate that a first class robe with cape costs about $3,000 new. But for those robeless peers and peeresses who decide to cut their costs and rent their regalia the cost is $87.

For another $24 a peer can also hire a court dress to wear under the robe.

The cut, style and color of the robes are rigidly controlled. Each robe is made of crimson velvet lined with white taffeta and edged with minniver, the winter coat of the ermine. Over the long robe is worn a short cape of minniver with rows of ermine denoting the wearer's rank. Such markings range from four rows of ermine "tips" for a duke to two rows for a baron.

Coronets are another badge of rank and the position of gold leaves and silver balls that surmount the silver-gilt circlet identify the wearer as duke, marquis, earl, viscount or baron.

For those peers and peeresses who jibe at hiring a coronation robe some firms are reported to be considering making a low cost outfit with rabbit pinch-hitting for ermine. It is estimated that such a robe would cost about $750.

The peeresses robe or mantle is worn over a kirtle or outer petticoat which has an open front to show the gown.

Rank among the peeresses is denoted by rows of ermine (it may now be rabbit) similar to those worn by the peers. Length of train also denotes rank, this ranges from two yards for a duchess to a yard for a baroness. Peeresses also wear scaled down coronets similar to those worn by their husbands.

The official of the rental firm said peers and peeresses did not seem to mind renting out robes for the coronation and some seemed very glad to be able to do so thus saving themselves a great expense.

The creation of many new peerages since the coronation of King George VI. in 1937 had caused an increased demand for rented coronation robes.

"WASHINGTON REFCRT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Apr. 17.

The Senate Judiciary Committee can perform a notable service for the American people when it calls Federal Judge James P. McGranery before it to consider his nomination as Attorney General of the United States.

Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat who is Chairman of the Judiciary Committee and not notably pro-McGranery, has indicated that the notorious Amerasia case will again be explored.

To begin with, the Senator should once and for all gag Judge McGranery, and any Justice Department officials called as witnesses, with the truth concerning the nature of the almost 2,000 Government documents stolen by Communists and their playmates who were involved in the Amerasia case.

Judge McGranery, who was assistant to the Attorney General in 1945 when the FBI arrested John S. Service and five others, has insisted since that date that the stolen documents were innocuous parcels of disconnected newspaper clippings containing no threat to the nation's security.

James M. McInerney, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, is another law enforcement officer who has maintained that the stolen papers were a mess of pottage.

During his appearance before the Tydings whitewash investigation of Reds in the State Department, McInerney had this to say:

"I would say that with respect to all of these documents, that they were of innocuous, very innocuous character. If I would estimate that 1 per cent of them related to our national defense, that would be about right. They had to do with very minor political and economical matters in the Far East, and I say that, having been chief of the Internal Security Section of the Department all during the war, I handled all the espionage cases for the Department and these things impressed me as being a little above the level of tea-cup gossip in the Far East."

McGranery, who was greased into his Federal judgeship by the then Attorney General Tom Clark, was McInerney's boss. He first established the fiction that nothing of importance was stolen from secret Government files. In one instance he told a Congressional Committee:

"I went back to check up to see how we stood with some of the things you gentlemen talked about, principally this bombing paper that seems to be stressed. On the one hand it could be said that it is a very innocuous thing. The paper, itself, is not an original. It seems to have been taken from a number of sources of periodicals, Navy periodicals that perhaps were restricted."

Two of the six arrested in the Amerasia case were freed following light fines. Four others were never taken to court. Throughout the legal proceedings constant references were made to the grand juries and the court that the thievery was petty. It was, in fact, a chorus of belittlement with occasional refrains that filching secret documents from Government files was a commonplace practice among Washington newspapermen.

Only once did McGranery change his tune. And that was when a Congressman forced him to admit that if a Russian-lover could steal one paper he could steal almost any secret paper. The judge said, "That is the angle the Congress is after," but it was not the angle the Department of Justices was after.

All the six arrested in the Amerasia case had Government documents in their possession when the FBI raided their various homes and offices. It took a truck to haul the loot back to the Government files where it belonged.

Here is a breakdown of the "innocuous" documents—so labeled by McGranery and McInterney:

Restricted, 119; confidential, 208; strictly confidential, 59; secret, 153; very secret, 1. The remainder were unclassified.

Of the total, 117 dealt with military matters; 438 with political; 120 economic; 119 biographical; 275 publications. The remainder defy classification.

Senator Tydings and his committee joined in labeling the documents innocuous.

Before the Judge is confirmed the Senate ought to ask him for another definition of the word. There are all kinds of papers in the Department of Justice marked "secret." And he'll be in charge of them.

INFORM OF YARDSTICK USED BY S. S. BOARD

Statement is Made Regarding Deferment of Farm Youth

IMPORTANCE OF FARM

What is the yardstick local boards are supposed to use in the deferment of farm youth? Selective Service makes the following statement to clarify the situation as it now exists:

"Many of these farms are purely subsistence farms and produce only sufficient to maintain the farm family. Many others are producing below what is considered necessary for the "health, safety, or interest of the nation." These sub-standard farms present a problem to Selective Service Local Boards in the matter of deferments.

"Selective Service is mindful that the family farm is an important element in our state and in the country as a whole, and should not be eliminated from the national picture. Rather, Selective Service is of the opinion that these farms which are usually below a one man production average could and should be improved to produce at least what is expected one man should produce. If this cannot be done, this kind of farm is relatively unimportant in the national economy and cannot be considered entitled to an agricultural deferment under Selective Service regulations.

"With this in mind, Pennsylvania Selective Service has accepted, as fair, a formula suggested by the Production and Marketing Administration. This formula uses as an example a farm producing for market 20 points. This farm will feed a family of four plus forty-four service men. Based on this formula, Pennsylvania State Selective Service System has furnished our local boards with a "guide" standard for farm deferments.

"Many of our farms fall short of this standard we have set and, therefore, do not rate agricultural deferments. Some of the farmers on these substandard farms have accused Selective Service Local Boards of favoring large commercial farms over these family farms, and of deliberately destroying the family or low producing farms. However, these same farmers continue to maintain a sub-standard operation. Thus, they defeat themselves, because they won't make the extra effort to raise their production.

"The Department of Agriculture is now calling for increased production in many farm commodities.

"Selective Service is of the opinion that a great quantity of this needed produce can be obtained by increasing the efficiency of the substandard farm. Colonel Gross, State Director of Selective Service, and Major H. H. MacCubbin, Farm Adviser, are of the opinion that if a man can produce near to our standard line on the under side he can go over that line. And that if a farm manned by two men produces six points less than our 'yardstick' standard for two men and fourteen points over a one-man standard, that farm can increase its efficiency to at least a two-man operation. We know this is possible because we have instances of one man producing for market as much as we have set for two and a half men.

"In order, therefore, to help agriculture meet its quota in food production, Colonel Gross has asked the Local Boards in Pennsylvania to keep a close check on farm deferments.

"If, said Colonel Gross, when a Local Board defers a man whose farm is not quite up to the production standard, the board will impress upon him that his operation must have increased to the standard required when his case is again reopened or he will not again be deferred, the boards will be contributing a valuable service to the country, and to the farmer, by stimulating him to do his best rather than just enough to get him by and insufficient to be of much help to the country.

"It will be of mutual benefit to the farmer and to the Local Board if a registrant or his employer will exercise his right of appeal within the time limit prescribed by law. This limit is clearly stated on Form SSS-110, Notice of Classification, which is mailed to the registrant, and Form SSS-111 which is mailed to registrant's employer.

"If no action is taken by registrant or employer until after registrant has been ordered for induction, he has little chance of having his induction postponed.

"Farmers should give full and complete information requested on SSSP-621, Agricultural Occupation Data Form, otherwise, they may not receive full credit. This information becomes a part of registrant's file and is confidential."

VOTE FOR...

An honest cleanup of corruption at Washington.
A balanced national budget, a sound dollar and an end to inflation.
A firm, fair and understandable program of foreign relations.
An end to the "giveaway games" at home and abroad.
A return to frank and open government under the Constitution.

IF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY CAN'T RESCUE THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT THIS YEAR FROM COMMUNISM, CRONIES AND CORRUPTION, WE MAY NEVER HAVE ANOTHER CHANCE

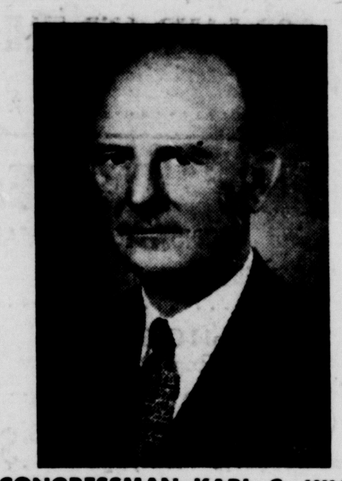

On Primary Day, Tuesday, April 22, take the big first step towards restoring common sense and common honesty at Washington by renominating two able and fearless Republican officials who have been working at Washington for the program outlined above. They are U. S. Senator Edward Martin and Congressman Karl C. King.

He now is endorsed for the Republican nomination to fill a vacancy on the Commonwealth's highest appellate court. HE DESERVES YOUR SUPPORT.

JUDGE JOHN C. ARNOLD
